“It is because Humanity has never known where it was going that it has been able to find its way” (Oscar Wilde)

Hobo Audio Company has recently completed 30 radio and two TV spots for Aetna and Grey Worldwide. Hobo audio engineer extraordinaire Chris Stangroom performed mixing duties at the company’s state-of-the-art audio facility located in the heart of midtown Manhattan. He was assisted by Dan Laporta.

Chris also recorded and mixed a Juvederm TV spot for Grey Worldwide and an Aphthasol TV commercial for CommonHealth Consumer. Bennett Kolasinski handled assistant engineer duties.

Also recently at Hobo, veteran audio engineer Joe Gauci was in studio B mixing a documentary entitled “Meeting Resistance”, which is being described as a “breakthrough film, the single most astonishing documentary yet on the Iraq war”. The film is currently making the rounds to various film festivals.

The Hobos were also visited by The Drink Agency working on a project for Schneider’s Children’s Hospital. The project involved ADR, edit, sound design, record and mix for a short film with a remarkable story line. Engineering and mixing duties were handled by Chris Stangroom and assisted by Bennett Kolasinski.

Engineer Bob Kirschner was in studio A mixing TV promos for Defiant TV. He was assisted by Bennett Kolasinski.

Hobo Audio Company opened in October of 2006, by Howard Bowler, whose experiences include: managing the audio post facility at Grey Worldwide, designing interactive audio for AT&T, producing a top 40 pop record for A&M and opening with his band at CBGB's for AC/DC.

Hobo's growing client list includes: ad agencies, TV and film production companies, documentary filmmakers and others. Hobo Audio rooms feature Pro Tools HD, 5.1 surround and hi-definition plasma displays. See our website for a full list of gear at: www.hoboaudio.com
